

Expectations for Modeling Project Presentations

- (1) Format Specifications
 - (a) Timeframe: 13–15 minutes. You will need to PRACTICE multiple times to make sure your presentation is not too long or too short. You will have up to five minutes after your presentation for questions from the audience.
 - (b) Presenters: Each group member should present for at least two minutes. The transitions between the group members should be thought out and rehearsed.
 - (c) Medium: Most presentations will be made using powerpoint or similar slide-based system; however, the use of a computer is not required.
- (2) Content
 - (a) The presentation should be self-contained. The audience is expected to have no previous knowledge of your topic.
 - (b) Think about the “take-away message(s)” that you would want your classmates to understand after your presentation. Make sure that your presentation conveys them clearly.
 - (c) Explicitly state the problem statement.
 - (d) Make sure to touch upon the project background, the model you used, results, discussion, and especially your interpretation: What does it all mean?
- (3) Suggestions for using Powerpoint
 - (a) Do not try to fit too much text or information on any one slide; each slide should focus on only one topic.
 - (b) Feel free to include graphics to illustrate your results.
 - (c) Do not add distracting slide transitions to your presentation.
 - (d) More: http://www.ehow.com/how_5059758_good-powerpoint-presentation.html
- (4) Know your audience
 - (a) You wouldn't want to sit through a presentation that is only words. Or where the presenters read the slides word for word. Don't do that.
 - (b) Find a way to keep your audience's attention. What was interesting to you about your project will likely be for them too.
 - (c) Don't make the presentation too simplistic or too technical.

You are expected to be present for and arrive promptly on all presentation days. If you are not present for your classmates' presentations, it will negatively impact your own presentation grade.

Reminder: Presentations are on the following days:

- Monday, May 13, 10:50–12:05 (Today: Very Important to be prompt!!!)
 - Arielle, Nicole M.
 - Theresa, Grazia, Nancy
 - Erika, Nicole F.
 - Singwai, Miguel, Ya Yan
- Wednesday, May 15, 10:50–12:05 (Today: Very Important to be prompt!!!)
 - Christina, Haley
 - Nikolina, Kristin, Jeannette
 - Fernando, Mengdi, Veronica, Karina C.
 - Ivanna
- Monday, May 20, 11:00am–1:00pm
 - Celia, Shazena, Karina M.
 - Adam, Schevalene, Ladan
 - Nathan, Sam, Joshua

Your presentation will be graded on content and form:

Content: Was the focus clear, concise, and obvious? Was the information presented in a logical order? Was the introduction interesting? Was the conclusion interesting? Was the presentation informative and appropriate for the audience?

Form: Did the speakers make eye contact with the audience? Speak clearly? Too fast or too slow? At the right volume? Refrain from using fillers (like, ah, um)? Enthusiastic and interested in topic? Able to get and keep attention?